MRS. ALLEN NOT EASILY FOUND.

HER DEPARTURE FROM THE BOTEL DEVONSHIRE-WHAT HER FORMER LAWYER SAYS.

Nicholas Thomas, a constable of Wiuflield, L. I., took the 7 a. m. train for New-York yesterday with Justice McGowan's warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Alien in his pocket. He visited the Hotel Devonshire in Forty-second-st. nearly opposite the Grand Central Depot, where Mrs. Allen has been staying, and learned that she had departed Sunday evening under somewhat madesant, circumstances conand learned that she had departed Sunday evening under somewhat unpleasant circumstances connected with an unpaid board bill. She had made some remark to Detective McMahon, of the Nineteenth Precinct, about visiting a lawyer at No. 101 Broadway, probably meaning No. 102, where is the office of Prince & Harsell, who have been her legal advisers. But the trusting constable visited No. 101 Broadway, a vacant lot. Gazneg sadly into the mud, but seeing no Mrs. Allen, the constable returned to Winfield at 2:30 p. m., solaced himself with beer and related his story.

At the Hotel Devonshire a Tribune reporter learned yesterday afternoon that Mrs. Allen had stayed there at irregular intervals for several months. For the last three or four weeks she has been there nearly all the time. Saturday she appeared exceedingly nervous keeping herself locked up in her room mest of the time. Sanday her bill for about two weeks room rent was presented and she declared she had no money, much to the surprise of the clerk, as she had always previously seemed well provided with eash. She went out toward evening and returned with money enough to pay a part only of the bill. She then attempted to remove some packages that she had brought, but was told that they would be detained, whereupen she left the house saying that she was going to see B. L. Harsell, the law partner of Chief Justice Prince, who was it. Her nackages were opened vesterday. One contained some oranges and a bottle of wine, another some pie and cake and a third some valueless clothing and a piece of thin dress goods.

The renorter learned frem Mr. Harsell that Mrs. All in called upon him sunday evening in an except of the called upon him sunday evening in an except of the page of the attacks upon her in the papers. She was especially enraged because Time Tribune had stated that she had "tow-colored hair."

the girl. Mary signed some checks and requested her to draw the money for her, which she du. She declared that she du not have the book and never had had it. I asked her if she knew where it was, and she said she thought she could find it, an answer which I didn't like. When Mrs. Alten was ejected from the Hammel house by a rather irregular process, I found that she held the deed to Mary's right in the house, assigned her, as she said, in consideration of a payment of $280. The deed had been properly entered in the County Clerk's office at Jamanea."

Mr. Harsell seemed somewhat sceptical in regard to the tale of Mary Hammel's sufferings. When Mrs. Allen left his house Sunday evening, she gave no address, simply saying that she was going to visit some friends. It was learned at Locust Grove that among Mrs. Allen's peculiar possessions were found thirry pant brushes and several silk hats.

"And they haven't found her," was the exclamation with which Mary Hammel greeted the Lubungtion with which Mary Hammel greeted the Lubungtion with which has be called upon her at Locust Grove and told her of the unsuccessful search. "Poor creature, I am sorry for her. But I think she ought to be locked up. I'd jump into the river rather than live with her again. Don't you think they will find her?" She was assured that the search would probably be successful in a day or two. Even in these tew days Mary Hammel's appearance has improved. She locks healthier and happier, although still emaciated and thinly clad. "Mrs. Allen bas some of my cloth's locked up at Plushing," she said, "and I want them. She used to bring our packages, and bundles too. Every night about 12 o'clock when she was there I would hear her going around and locking up the doors. But I it all tright now that I'm with my sister. I am getting along nicely."

DR. SHERMAN'S DOINGS.

What Harry Richardson Says About His Rupture Treatment.

Mr. Richardson is a Reliable Farmer, and Relates Illis Experience Truthfully.

[From The Boston Herald.]

Editor Boston Heraid:
For the benefit of a large perion of mankind, I wish to make the following stat ment through your valuable naper:
I was a victim of rupture or my gight side for more than 22 years, during which time I used a great variety of trusses, from which I only derived worrinent, injury and vexation. In fact, to go here or there, try tais or that man's truss, was but adding to my g levance and disappointment. Which is in this deplorable condition I casualty got hold of one of Dr. J. A. Sherman's books on "iturities and its Cure," and looking through it, I relt encouraged, tailed the matter over with my father, who, k aswing I had exhausted that truss system, and having faith in the strong evidence in Dr. Sherman's book that he could help me advised me to go and try him. Consequently, I were to his Boston office, 43 Mikest, last January, received his treatment, and have been coursely cured. Unting the time I used his remedies I was actively engaged in farm work, for I am a fartner, and at times had occasion to test my physical abilities to their nimes, without recong the least have only the cured, as a have been coursely the feet of the production of the depth of the commending He least have the consequence. His treatment is a goot thing, and has desired. I feet happy in recommending He to matter the least have been and that me for it. My address is North Londonnierty, N. H.
